Alba 'passionate' about public service

SMITHFIELD - Suzy Alba, a Democrat running for Town Council, recently explained why she is interested in politics, a question she said she's been asked many times on the campaign trail.

"My answer is simple. I'm passionate about public service and volunteering my time on behalf of my community," Alba said. "I'm devoted to solving problems and helping the Town of Smithfield be the best it can be for everyone, especially future generations."

Alba has lived in town almost six years. She and her husband, Adam, purchased their first home in town and were drawn to Smithfield by "its natural beauty, the charm of the community and the reputation for excellent schools," she said. "I humbly believe that my background in public service and many years of community leadership experience could help initiate some necessary and important changes in our great town."
